

FACULTY APPLICATION INFORMATION

Thank you for your interest in teaching for the Washington state Community College Consortium for Study Abroad (WCCCSA)!

WCCCSA seeks enthusiastic and creative faculty who can demonstrate a history of effectiveness in their instructional discipline and the ability to successfully forward student participation and academic progress. Interested instructors need strong interpersonal communication skills and a keen awareness of the realities of providing instruction to US community college students overseas. A strong foundation in intercultural awareness/communication, student development, and cross-cultural adjustment is required to teach on a WCCCSA program.

Faculty applicants are evaluated on the following criteria:

1. Relevance of the proposed course to its respective environment
2. Applicability of proposed courses to general education distribution requirements and courses' appeal to the general students (without prerequisite preferred, generally no access to lab or studio space on site)
3. Record of college-level teaching excellence with proposed or similar courses
4. Previous international education experience and student service experience
5. Record of collegial cooperation and interdisciplinary instruction
